

NEWS & INSIGHTS

JACK SHARMAN INTERVIEWED FOR REUTERS ARTICLE ABOUT ATTORNEY GENERAL APPOINTEE JEFF SESSIONS AND WHITE-COLLAR ENFORCEMENT

November 20, 2016

In an article about the appointment by President-elect Trump of Senator Jeff Sessions (R-Ala) to be Attorney General, Reuters journalists Nathan Layne and Joel Schectman quote Lightfoot white-collar partner Jack Sharman:

“Jackson Sharman, a white-collar defense lawyer in Alabama, said that he believed Sessions would want to be as tough on white-collar as on street criminals. He pointed to Sessions' recent opposition to a crime bill that would have shown sentencing leniency for non-violent offenders.”

Here is a link to the full article: Pro-business Sessions will not go easy on corporate crime: lawyers

Jack writes about white-collar matters at White Collar Wire. To read about Lightfoot's white-collar practice, click here.

You can follow Lightfoot's business-crime and enforcement Twitter feed here: @WhiteCollarWire.